The study was conducted over a period of six months, during which time the plants were grown under different conditions. The results of the study are presented in the following sections.

2. Materials and Methods

The plants were grown in a greenhouse, and the following factors were varied: light intensity, temperature, and nutrient concentration. The plants were grown in pots, and the growth was measured by the height of the plants and the number of leaves. The results of the study are presented in the following sections.

11. Colonel George Reade, youngest child, born in England 25 October 1608, came in a secretarial capacity with Gov. Sir John Harvey to Jamestown, Virginia, in 1637 and for a time resided at the Governor's Mansion. He became the owner of large tracts of land; was first Captain, then Major and later Colonel of the Colonial Militia. He was acting Secretary of State of the colony during Richard Kemp's absence 1637-1641; Acting Governor 1638 and 1639; Burgess for James City County 1649 and for York County in 1655 and 1656. He was appointed a member of the Kings on Governor's Council of Virginia and served from 1657 to 1661. He died in October 1674 and was buried in Yorktown. His will was admitted to probate 21 November 1674. He married 1641 at Yorktown Elizabeth Marteau who was born at Elizabeth City, Virginia, 1625. Her will dated 10 February 1685/6 was admitted to probate in York County Court on 24 January 1686/7.

She was the eldest daughter of Captain Nicholas Marteau, who was born in France in 1591, a Huguenot who fled to Belgium. While still quite young, he went to England where he was naturalized by royal decree and where he came under the influence of the powerful Earl of Huntingdon, one of the members of the Virginia Company. At the latter's urgent solicitation, Marteau was educated as a military engineer. He was sent to America to construct fortifications greatly needed for defense against the Indians. Sailing from England 11 May 1620, on the ship "Francis Bonaventure," he arrived in Virginia in June 1620. He was captain of the Militia and after the Massacre by the Indians in 1622 was stationed with a company of the Militia at Falling Creek, well up the James River. He first resided at Elizabeth City, and from this community he was elected a member of the House of Burgess 1623 and 1624. In 1624 or 1625 he married Jane, who had come to Virginia in the ship "Sea Flower," arriving in February 1621/2. Jane, whose last name has not been preserved, died about 1640. She was the widow of Lieutenant Edward Berkeley. On 12 December 1625 Nicholas Marteau wrote to the Earl of Huntingdon, "I am now both a husband and a father." He represented Kyskyach (Yorktown) and the Isle of Kent in the House of Burgesses 1631 and 1632 and Kyskyach in 1632 and 1633. He was one of the first Magistrates of York County, which office he held for more than 20 years. He owned extensive lands on the York River at the present site of Yorktown, known since as Templa Farms. The surrender of Cornwallis, 19 October 1781, took place on the old Marteau tract. Nicholas Marteau was the earliest American ancestor of General George Washington, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and other distinguished Virginians. Colonel Merrow E. Sonley, in his excellent history, "Lewis of Warner Hall" (1935), states also that Nicholas Marteau played a most important part in Virginia history in connection with the ejection of Governor Harvey. Meetings were held in 1635 at the Marteau home and other places to voice opposition to Harvey's methods and high-handedness; an early protest against royal tyranny. Marteau and others were accordingly arrested and placed in irons by order of Harvey who announced his intention of hanging them, but the opposition to him was so strong that he was forced to release them and Governor Harvey himself was placed under a heavy guard, and soon thereafter was forced to return to England. Harvey later returned to Virginia, bringing with him the young George Reade, but Harvey's views were so arbitrary that he was soon forced to leave Virginia in 1638, never to return. In 1639 Marteau was appointed one of the Tobacco Viewers for Charles River County. Captain Marteau, whose will was dated 1 March 1656, died at Yorktown and his will was probated 24 April 1657. In 1931 a granite monument, 11 feet high, with bronze tablet was there erected to his memory. Nicholas Marteau and Jane were the parents of:

- (a) Nicholas Marteau, Jr., who died before reaching maturity.

10. Mildred Reade, born in a plantation home on the site of Williamsburg,
(a) where her parents had settled soon after their marriage. She was the eldest of their children, but the date of her birth is not known. Her will is dated 4 January 1694. She was married in 1670 to Col. Augustine Warner, Jr., called "Speaker Warner," member of the Royal Council of Virginia in 1677, born 3 June 1642 in Virginia, where he died 19 June 1681. He inherited "Warner Hall" in 1674, was speaker of the House of Burgesses in 1675 and 1676; Councillor in 1676 and 1677. He was a great-grandfather of General George Washington, and eight times great-grandfather of Elizabeth, Queen of England. Col. Warner's sister, Sarah, was great-great-grandmother of General Robert E. Lee.

Margaret Reade, born at Yorktown 1696, died 1720, daughter of John Reade and his wife Mary Lilly, married 1710

Thomas Nelson "Gent," known as "Scotch Tom," born 20 February 1677 at Penrith, Cumberland County, England, son of Hugh Nelson of Penrith. Immigrated to Virginia about 1700 and the first of the name so celebrated and so highly honored in Virginia. They had three sons, all born at York Hall, Yorktown:

- (a) William Nelson, born 1711, died 1772, married Elizabette Burnell and had issue. He was President of the Colonial Council at Yorktown.
- (b) Thomas Nelson, born 1716, died 1786, married Lucy Armistead, daughter of John of "Haase." Thomas Nelson was Secretary of the Colonial Council 30 years. Left issue.
- (c) John Nelson, born 1720, died 1821, married (first) Miss Mary Tobey, daughter of General Joseph Tobey of the American Revolution, (second) Miss Nancy Ann Carter of Williamsburg, and (third) Mrs. Frances Courtney Tucker.

Bible records at "York Hall" show that Mrs. Margaret Reade Nelson's demise came March 1720, and her husband Thomas Nelson died there 7 October 1745. In the church yard of Old Grace Church at Yorktown, built 1725, lie resting members of the Hampden Parish, York County, Virginia. Among these are the tombs of Thomas Nelson "Gent" (born 1677, died 1745), a baroque sarcophagus with the Nelson arms. By his side lies buried his son William, born 1711, died 1772, and William Nelson's son, Governor Thomas Nelson, born 1738, died 1789, who was Colonial Governor of Virginia and signer of the Declaration of Independence. Father, son and grandson resided at "York Hall", Yorktown, Virginia. "York Hall" is kept like the Governor left it, and it is open to the public.

Major John Nelson, born 1720 at York Hall, Yorktown, Virginia. Third heir and son of Thomas Nelson and his wife, Margaret Reade, married (first) Miss Mary Tobey, born 1722, died 1760, daughter of James Tobey and sister of Gen. Joseph Tobey of the American Revolution. Marriage was February 10th, 1740, recorded in the Over-Wharton Parish Register, Stafford County, Virginia, by Boogher, page 131. Of their children I have the following record, all of whom were born in Fauqua County, Virginia;

- (1) James Nelson, issue, 2 daughters, Catherine Horton, Elizabeth Green.
- (2) Hannah Nelson
- (3) Thomas Nelson
- (4) Joseph Nelson, born 1752, died 1837 - Catherine O'Bannon.
- (5) John Nelson, Jr., born March 20, 1753, m. 1st Mary _____, 2nd, Nancy Ware Hunter.

John Nelson, Sr., married (second) Nancy Ann Carter of Williamsburg, had issue, a daughter Mary, who married Col. Edward Berkeley of Barn Elms, Middlesex County, Virginia. He married (third) Mrs. Frances Courtney Tucker, daughter of John Courtney and widow of John Tucker - issue, a daughter, Sarah, who married Col. Robert Carter Burwell.

Major General John Nelson's services in the American Revolution is found in the Register of North Carolina Officers in the Continental Lines, as follows:

Captain John Nelson, Fourth - 16 April 1776

Major John Nelson, 3rd February 1778

Prisoner at Charleston 12th May 1780

Exchanged 17th March 1781

First Major General 1781 _____ 1783

Honorably discharged 1st January 1783

Major General John Nelson, for valiant service in the Continental Lines, received a grant of 4,800 acres of land in Davison County, on Nelson Creek, North Carolina. The registered serial number is 258, signed March the 14th, 1786, by Gen. George Washington, President of the United States. It is written in longhand with a goose quill pen on parchment.

It was about this time that Major General Nelson removed from Virginia to Mecklenburg, North Carolina, and built "Oak Hill" Plantation, renowned for hospitality and the business operated and tended there by negro slaves. It is here General Nelson lived out his long and useful life. Tradition comes down to us that he lived over 100 years and was never ill. As he grew older, there was always a special attendant to go with him into the fields, overseeing the slaves at work. On an early spring day, 10th of March 1821, while in the field, General Nelson's breathing became difficult, breath growing shorter and shorter. He was carried to the manor house by the servants and there passed peacefully to his eternal rest.

In Richmond, Virginia, State Library is an old Bulletin of Obituaries and from "The Mecklinburg Enquirer" is chronicled the death of Major General John Nelson, 10th of March 1821, at Oak Hill.

Major General John Nelson was not only a gallant officer and hero in the American Revolution, but also a great gentleman, an aristocrat by birth, brave and believing in a loving Heavenly Father. Few men have lived a life so zestful or a life so long and so full as did General Nelson. He was third cousin to General George Washington and first cousin to Colonial Governor Thomas Nelson, signed of the Declaration of Independence, and whose name is the only American one, beside that of Gen. George Washington, on the pedestal of the Statute of Victory which commemorates the surrender of Britain under Cornwallis at Yorktown.

John Nelson, Jr., born 30 March 1753, in Fauqua County, Virginia, died 20th July 1819, in Mecklenburg, North Carolina. He was the youngest son of Major General John Nelson and his first wife, Mary Tobey of Fauqua County, Virginia. John Nelson, Jr., married Mary _____ (last name unknown), probably before entering the service in the Continental Lines. He was 29 years of age when he married 31 January 1782, at Mecklenburg Miss Nancy Ware Hunter, born 19 July 1764, and died 11 January 1813, at Mecklenburg.

Major John Nelson, Jr., was a brave and believing officer in the great cause for freedom. Serving the entire years, as did his father, as Major of the Cavalry, and for brave service rendered, he received a 5,000-acre land grant in the State of Tennessee. The certified copy number is 18324, dated 10th July 1784, Warrant #1121, signed by George Washington, President of the U. S. A. Some axioms Gen. Nelson used in instructing his sons were: "My son, no one who has good blood brags about it, and no one abuses it but those who haven't got it," and "It's better to come from nothing and go to something than to come from something and go to nothing."

The Paynes came from Macon, Georgia, and his wife, Mary Ann Smith, came from Atlanta, Georgia. They emigrated to Louisiana about 1850, settling in Lincoln Parish, La. He owned a large farm there and reared a fine family of five daughters and one son. In 1885 he moved to Texas, leaving two married daughters in Lincoln Parish. Later, his daughter, Sena Rachel, and her husband, John Huey Nelson, joined them in Texas. The Paynes settled in Donahue, Texas, near Temple. Both died there and are buried in the Donahue Cemetery.

The Nelsons came from Mecklenburg, North Carolina, emigrating to Tennessee, thence to Louisiana, settling in Ouachita Parish in the early 1800's. In North Carolina the Nelsons were given many land grants for services in the Revolutionary War. A certified copy of Land Grant No. 18324 to John Nelson, found in Record Book V, page 22, Tennessee, for 5,000 acres, Warrant No. 1121, dated July 10, 1784, is in the possession of Minnie Nelson Phillips. Ida Tooke of Ringgold, Louisiana, has Land Grant No. 258, dated March 14, 1786, from her great-grandmother, Maria Theresa Nelson, who married Philip Purser Brinson, for 4,800 acres in Davidson County on Nelson Creek. The Nelsons owned much land in Louisiana before the Civil War and bought more before the war ended. Some were prosperous farmers and others were preachers, doctors and school teachers. They were communicants of the Baptist Church, organizing the first Baptist Church in Lincoln Parish, known as "The Taylor Springs Baptist Church."

John Huey Nelson owned property and a business place in Vienna and Ruston, Louisiana, owning and operating a wagon supply and blacksmith shop in Ruston. While serving as constable and jailor in Ruston, he paid a man $9.00 per day to operate his shop and in that day that was considered big wages. Dolph Jackson, a merchant in Ruston and one of his best friends, recommended him to a firm in St. Louis, Missouri, to buy his supplies. Dolph Jackson later removed to Mansfield, Louisiana, and continued in his mercantile business, while John Huey Nelson sold his holdings in Ruston and moved to Texas in 1886. Minnie Jackson Kidd, daughter of Dolph Jackson, has always kept in touch with the family of Minnie Nelson Phillips, even to this date.

John Huey Nelson and his family settled in Calvert, Texas, remaining there until 1904, when they moved back to Shreveport, La., leaving two married daughters at Franklin and New Baden, Texas. These two daughters taught school and reared a family that Texas has been proud to own as their best citizens. Louisiana also can boast of the children who were brought back to their native state.
